

Training Finder

LinkedIn's vision is to create economic opportunity for every member of the global workforce. In many cases, that means connecting workers with the training they need to qualify for the jobs they want.

In spring of 2016, LinkedIn launched Training Finder — a new product that helps job seekers acquire new skills and advance their careers. It shows them relevant training programs in their area; which programs are affiliated with employers; whether or not they're accredited; the program's employment rate, cost, and duration; the skills the program will teach them; the jobs they'll be qualified for when they complete the program; and the estimated salary. These insights will help job seekers choose the training program that will teach them the skills they need to get the job they want.

For now, Training Finder is targeted at job seekers in Phoenix and Colorado who have a high school diploma and some or no college education.

Training Finder helps anyone advance their career in their current field, or transition to a new job in a different field, combining information about locally available programs with career and employer information.
